K. Counterintelligence activities abroad. Programs for protecting U.S. Government personnel, and sensitive U.S. information, installations and operations against espionage, sabotage and subversion, including:

2. Personnel security screening and supervision

a. Trends

Based upon experiences gained in the past year, it is anticipated that this Division will become further involved in providing support in the personnel security field. Experience has indicated that after the establishment of the desired rapport at a field installation, Chiefs' of Station or Base and other field personnel are prone to volunteer information relative to existing or potential personnel security problems, which otherwise may not become known to Headquarters for some period of time.

b. Plans

During the conduct of the annual security survey of all overseas Stations, continuing efforts will be made to ensure that each Station maintains an active program to provide an appropriate security briefing to all personnel upon their arrival at the Station, and periodically thereafter if warranted by changing conditions.

c. Accomplishments

In the course of continuing comprehensive security

3. Physical security

a. Trends

(1) Kidnappings, assassinations, riots, civil disturbances and organized demonstrations pose an increasing threat to overseas installations and cover. This development has presented some unique security problems regarding the protection of classified information.

b. Plans

(1) Conduct annual comprehensive security surveys of all overseas Stations and Bases to ensure that sensitive Agency material, including sources and methods, is adequately protected and that emergency destruction systems are available in case of crisis.

(2) Assist in the formulation and implementation of plans and use of equipment to minimize the danger from terrorist activity including kidnapping and assassination.

(6) The program for briefing outgoing Chiefs of Station and Base was continued during the past year. This program includes the individual briefing of Station and Base Chief designates on the overall security support program for overseas Stations and a detailed analysis of the security posture of the particular Station or Base to which the individual is being assigned.

(7) The need for all Stations and Bases to have a current, effective emergency destruction plan has been stressed during the conduct of security surveys. Chiefs of Station and Base have been given guidance and assistance in this matter by the visiting Security Officers. Reductions of classified material holdings to an absolute minimum consistent with operational requirements has been urged and a substantial improvement in this matter has been noted during the past year.
